Any person of legal age may join the All4One Club as a Member. In order to do so, the person must activate their membership by completing our online enrollment process and choose one of the membership packages that are available at the time the member enrolls. The Membership activation includes their first year annual $99 membership fee, their first product order, a replicated website to share with others, access to their own online back office, and the All4One Mobile App. There are no monthly purchase requirements or any type of "recruiting" requirements to maintain a membership each year. Each member is required to pay their annual $99 membership fee and simply place one order in our store per year.

Section 14 – Our Membership Terms

As a member of the All4One Club, you agree and accept the policies and procedures listed herein, and agree to the rules outlined in section 14 of this agreement. Each member that has activated their membership will receive their first product order (from choices listed at the time of activating their membership), has paid their annual membership fee of $99, and has access to the All4One Club back office. Each year the member is able to keep their membership active by paying their annual renewal fee of $99 and placing an order within the same month that their membership renewal is due. If for any reason the member does not renew their membership on their renewal date, which is the first day of the month after the month that they originally became a member, they will forfeit any of the weekly income earned until the membership is renewed. If the annual fee of $99 is not renewed by the last day of the new renewal month, the member relinquishes any monthly residual rewards from any/all members within their club. If the member renews their membership by paying their $99 annual renewal fee on the first day of a given week within their renewal month, they will begin earning any weekly rewards that may be available for the remaining weeks in the first month of their renewal. The member must also place an order within their renewal month to remain an active and current member of the All4One Club. If the member does not place their product/service order on or before the last day of their renewal month, they will be forfeiting any future earnings with the company through the All4One Rewards Program until their order is placed. Each member, even though a renewal and product order has not been placed, will have a 90-day grace period to renew their membership and place an order. Otherwise, the member will be removed from the company as an active member. If a given member misses their grace period, and has not renewed and placed their order before the grace period expires, the member will lose their current position within the rewards program, but they may rejoin the All4One Club and start as a brand-new member.

Section 15 – Referring New Members to the Club

As Member of the club, we transfer the right to help us expand the club by referring new members. Any new Member of the club will be assigned an ID number, and will also be connected to the person who referred them. Once someone becomes a Member of the club, they cannot join anyone else in the club unless they cancel their membership in writing with the company, and wait a minimum of 6 months before they can rejoin anyone else in the club. If a husband or wife decides to activate their own membership, they must be enrolled by their spouse. All4One Club, LLC reserves the right to cancel any membership if someone is violating these terms of referring new members.

Section 16 – Cross Recruiting

If a Member in the club is an affiliate, distributor, or any type of independent consultant for any type of program or company that has a multi-level compensation plan and an opportunity to recruit a sales team of any type or form, the All4One Club allows this. However, if a Member of the All4One Club is also in another type of company as mentioned above, and begins cross recruiting other All4One Club Members that are NOT personally enrolled by this Member, they will immediately be terminated from the All4One Club.
